Theatre last night with the production of They were committed to jull in default. Flotow's romantic opera of Stradella by the Gesangverein Virginia; and its reception is well calculated to fill the bearts of all who took part in its rendition with emotions of BOT THE CIRCULATION OF THE DIE- gratification and pride-gratification at the PATCH IS LARGER THAN THE COMBINED evident pleasure afforded the immense andience present, which was plainly evinced by the frequent outbursts of applause and demands for encores; and justifiable pride at the reward bestowed on them for their success, to insure which they had labored so assiduously for months past and been at such heavy expense.

The audience was one of the largest and most brilliant ever gathered together within the walls of the Theatre, and was composed of our very best people, both native and foreign. The orchestra-chairs, dress-circle, and parquet were filled with fair ladies and their escorts, while many, unable to obtain other seats, were forced to occupy the family-circle. Of the principal characters in the opera it is not saying too much when we accord them the highest praise for the excellent manner in which they acquitted themselves whether in rendering the charming arias with which the play abounds or in the concerted pas-ORDER-ADDITIONAL GUARD ORDERED.-In sages. The Gesangverein are fortunate in having such a valuable ous to the health of persons confined therein, member as Mr. Fischer. Messrs, Perrot and Steinlein as Barbarino and Malvolio, prothe convenient accommodation of those who fessional assassins, acted and sang their respective parts excellently, as also did Mr. Jeurgens as Bassi, the guardian of Leonora

The chorus throughout the opera gave evidence of the most careful training. With nearly eighty voices singing in wonderful accord the effect was grand indeed, especially in the carnival chorus, which is sung several times during the first act, the peasants' chorus in the second, and the finale, most effective outburst of harmony, and send melody ringing in their ears.

The orchestra, composed of Professor Kessnich's band relaforced by several instruments, together with the piano, presided over by Professor Thilow, contributed in a order. The regiment has an honorable re-Rule in Admiralty.-Judge Hughes has great degree to the successful rendition of the opera.

But to Mr. Charles L. Seigel, the musical director of the Gesangverein, should be accorded the meed of unqualified encomium for his untiring efforts and assiduous a ten-One of the most striking features of the opera was the magnificent costuming of the masqueraders and prominent characters in the first act, as well as that of the peasants The Richmond stage has scarcely ever pre sented such a scene as that which we witnessed last night; and those who were un able to be present may be assured that they have missed a treat which is not often enjoyed in this city. The scenery in Stradella is very fine, several new scenes being painted expressly for the opera. Prominent among them are the illuminated bridge and gondola scene in Venice in the first act, and the suburban scene near Rome in the second act. To-night the opera of Der Freischutz will be presented with an improved ineartation scene-one which has never been surpassed in Richmond. Reserved seats are still to be two doses of Green's August Flower. If you had at Wyatt's music-store.

on the civit docket. Am Appeal for the First Virginia Re-

To the Civizens of Richmond: The First Regiment of Virginia Volunteers makes this appeal to the citizens of Richmond for aid in pressing upon the City Council the necessity that exists for providing a permanent armory for the regiment. From the reorganization of the battalion un-til within the last half-year we have had a temporary place for assembly and drill in a building which several months ago was required for other purposes. Our companies have since then been compelled to seek shell ter in any place they could get, and generally in small, inconvenient rooms, utterly unfi for the purposes for which they have been required. The consequence is that many companies are unable to drill; and are daily deteriorating in skilt and efficiency, and unless one central, convenient, and suitable armory is soon provided the present organization must be greatly impaired, if not cease to exist. The expense of maintaining the present companies has fallen heavily on the officers and men, who are generally men who support themselves by their own exertions-professional, mechanical, or otherwise. They are unable to bear any great burthens, and have already expended out of their own pockets fully twenty thousand dollars in equipping and organizing the battalion. It is utterly impossible for them to raise the money to build an armory. A report of a joint committee of the City Council lately made shows that a proper armory can be furnished for $15,000. The interest on the sum is only $1,200 per annum; and we appeal to you to say to the City Council that in your opinion such an annual charge on the tax-payers of the city is not too great to preserve an efficient, well-organized regiment of volunserved police force for the conservation of Also, a full line of CHINA, GLASS, and cord of services in peace and war, and we do PLATED WARE and HOUSE-FURNISHING not think we claim too much when we assert that the whole community is deeply interested in maintaining its organization. It is the only organized battalion in the Commonwealth which could be made available at short notice for service anywhere within her borders. We, therefore, ask you to aid us in in-
